The Clover Park Technical College Chapter of The American Association of Women in Community Colleges

AAWCC
Principles

Conservation of equity for women is critical to the success and development of our nation. Equity is increased through advocacy efforts and use of equitable human resources. The achievement of equity for women is enhanced through a strong and effective network of women in community and national leadership positions. Women in community and national leadership positions are encouraged to pursue higher education and professional development in order to improve access to educational and professional opportunities, and increase professional and educational opportunities. Women in community and national leadership positions are encouraged to encourage and expand educational opportunities for women and children.

About AWCC

AWCC is the American Association of Women Community Colleges, a national organization dedicated to the advancement of women in community colleges. AWCC is based in the United States, and its mission is to support and advocate for the advancement of women in community colleges. AWCC provides support and resources to help women in community colleges achieve their full potential and contribute to the success of their institutions. AWCC is committed to ensuring that women in community colleges have access to the resources and opportunities they need to succeed. AWCC is an association of women in community colleges, working together to promote the advancement of women in all areas of the field.
