New Business

- Larry Clark

Sadie Hollebach motions to discuss food options on campus. Tim Kvamme seconds the motion. Motion passes.

Larry is the head of the food committee, the food truck program is the latest program. It's challenging to keep trucks coming with low prices. It's been very hard because we have expected food trucks and sometimes did not show. Summer is hard because we don't have many people on campus but we will see how November goes, because winter is hard for food trucks. A lot of people don't want to come because they don't want to pay the food permit, they don't want to invest when they don't know how much will be sold. Larry had spoken to the owner of Divine Decadence about getting an annual food permit. He had talked to the owner and she was interested in working out something with others about selling food and moving to the bigger bistro area. The college will try to pay for food permits but he wants to have a plan and make sure they are paying rent to cover the space and permit. There are no special arrangements, pastry arts is here but it's just here for experience. We want to try and do it through programs hopefully. When we bring in outside vendors it will be hard to have low cost programs.

- Legislative issue

New Hope for Previously Incarcerated Students limits the disclosure of students' criminal records to Social and Human Services. Applications that integrate students that apply for academic achievement like housing and food assistance. Affordability and accessibility, for affordable textbooks, classes, ect. College Affordability, expand access to instate tuition, supports completion, high school diploma not enough to get a high job. New Hope is something not a lot people talk about, but the other two are talked about a lot. It is important and an issue but if we can focus on something that most people don't. We want to focus on New Hope.

- Clubs handbook

Cal handed out the handbook, in the by-laws Clubs and Organizations Handbook is a document we need to look over. This will need to be approved by our next meeting so read it and be prepared.
